CHAIRMAN'S LETTER

Dear reader,

On behalf of the Executive Board, it is my pleasure to present AEGON's Corporate Responsibility Report 2004, which reaffirms our commitment to high standards of sound and responsible business practices.

Following the publication of AEGON's first-ever Corporate Responsibility Report last year, we invited our stakeholders to review and comment on both the underlying principles and specific directives of the report. We are grateful for the valuable insights and recommendations that have informed our ongoing efforts to enhance AEGON's Corporate Responsibility policies and practices.

For AEGON, Corporate Responsibility is more than a set of principles. It provides a set of benchmarks by which we can constantly measure our commitment to operating our businesses with respect, quality, transparency and trust. The Code of Conduct continues to serve as the foundation for AEGON's Corporate Responsibility. Furthermore, it serves as a practical guide for management, employees and partners as we carry out our day-to-day business and pursue the right growth opportunities for AEGON around the world.

We appreciate your interest in AEGON's commitment to Corporate Responsibility. As you review this most recent report, we again welcome your comments and suggestions as we continue to build on the trust that has distinguished AEGON as one of the world's leading providers of life insurance, pensions and savings and investment products.

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Donald J. Shepard", is shown on a light-colored background.

Donald J. Shepard
Chairman of the Executive Board

1 INTRODUCTION

In 2003, AEGON issued its first-ever Corporate Responsibility (CR) Report after an extensive process involving feedback of key stakeholders and a review of its established business practices. With the publication of this latest CR Report, representing further developments in 2004, we provide an opportunity to review our progress and reassert AEGON's strategy for achieving high standards of corporate responsibility policies and practices. As in 2003, this latest report reflects AEGON's focus on three core areas: economic, social and environmental.

It is clear that there are increasingly diverse views, expectations and definitions of Corporate Responsibility. Since the publication of AEGON's first CR Report, we have actively consulted our stakeholders to gain valuable feedback about AEGON's commitment to sound Corporate Responsibility. AEGON welcomes this opportunity to reaffirm its approach to CR as it relates to its fundamental business strategy, and in the day-to-day activities that distinguish AEGON as one of the world's leading life and pension insurance groups.

The foundation of AEGON's CR approach is the Code of Conduct (www.aegon.com). All employees are expected to conduct their business in full compliance with the specifications of the Code. Periodically, AEGON's Internal Audit division conducts an extensive review of the content and response to the Code. AEGON will continue to regularly review the Code of Conduct and other issues relating to its Corporate Responsibility practices. It will also be a constant priority to identify areas for clarification and greater understanding in order to enhance compliance internationally among all stakeholders.

During 2004, there have been a number of key developments within AEGON's Corporate Responsibility process. AEGON's well-defined corporate governance structure, its clear positions on economic, social and environmental policies, and its adherence to responsible business practices, enable the Executive Board to issue AEGON's 2004 Corporate Responsibility Report with strong confidence that AEGON's reputation as a responsible and sustainable company is sound.

A more complete summary of AEGON's business activities throughout Europe, the United States and Asia, as well as additional detail on Corporate Governance, is provided in the AEGON Annual Report 2004 (www.aegon.com).

NOTE: Due to the sale of the non-life operations in Spain and the corresponding changes in staff during 2004, the Corporate Responsibility Report 2004 does not include complete data from AEGON's operations in Spain. Where Spanish data is included it will be explicitly indicated.

Financial information and information on the number of employees are the same as in the AEGON Annual Report 2004. This report has been coordinated by the Group Corporate Responsibility department. This part of the report provides information on the main elements that comprise AEGON's economic, social and environmental performance and the ways in which the AEGON Group conducts its business in a responsible way.

3.1 Policyholders

Through its business units AEGON offers a variety of on-line financial services, in keeping with a multi-channel distribution strategy. On-line financial services can reduce the transaction cost between company and customer, improve productivity and efficiency as well as reducing the need for traveling and printed materials. Based on data representing roughly half of the company, it is estimated that 5.5% of revenues are generated through the provision of on-line financial services platforms.

AEGON EMPLOYMENT COSTS 2004

in EUR million

- Other social security charges
- Pension premiums
- Salaries

3.2 Employees

Despite a decrease in the average number of employees from 28,521 to 27,906, AEGON's total employment costs increased with 8.3% from EUR 1.476 million in 2003 to EUR 1.598 million in 2004. This can be explained by an increase of the average salary with 3.3% (from EUR 41,303 to EUR 42,679) and a significant increase in the pension contributions in the USA and the Netherlands. The average employment cost, including pension contributions and social security charges rose from EUR 51,751 to EUR 57,264, an increase of 10.7%.

3.3 Capital providers

In 2004, AEGON paid EUR 664 million in interest to providers of debt capital, an increase of 2.9%. To its shareholders, AEGON paid EUR 256 million in cash dividends (an increase of 74%) and EUR 360 million in stock dividends (a decrease of 46%).

At December 31, 2004, equity capital represented 72% of the total capital base (up from 71% in 2003). The AA financial strength ratings assigned by Standard & Poor's to AEGON's operating units in the United States, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom were the same as in 2003.

4 SOCIAL PERFORMANCE

Source: AEGON Annual Report 2004

This part of the report provides information on the main elements that comprise AEGON's social performance and the ways in which the AEGON Group conducts its business in a responsible way.

4.1 Employment and employee development

4.1.1 Work force and employee turnover

Female senior managers constituted approximately 16.3% of the total senior management teams across country units, a decrease relative to the 19% in 2003.

The total turnover rate of employees in 2004 was 12.9%, up from 10.9% in 2003. This increase was largely due to an increase in voluntary turnover, which comprises 60% of total turnover. Involuntary turnover represents 34% of total turnover, down from 54% due to less reorganization throughout the group in 2004. Turnover due to natural causes remained stable at 6%.

4.1.2 Employee and management development

AEGON's spending on training increased by almost 34% from EUR 10.9 million to EUR 15.0 million, despite the decrease of the dollar against the euro. Per employee, the spending on training went up from EUR 440 in 2003 to EUR 574 in 2004. The average days of training per employees rose slightly from 3.9 to 4.0 days per year.

Developing AEGON's workforce is key to running the business, especially since financial markets and regulations develop constantly. A structured appraisal process is central to this objective. 77% of senior management, 91% of AEGON middle management and 96% of the rest of the workforce are subject to a standardized process. Appraisal for senior management follows a less standardized process since these functions are more specific and a more personalized appraisal process is often better able to capture these differences. Appraisal processes differ by country units and even within large country units. Methods that are used include, but are not limited to Management by Objectives, 360 Reviews or other multidimensional performance appraisals and in a very limited number of cases Comparative Ranking of employees.

4.2 Health and safety

During 2004, a total of 305 work-related injuries occurred worldwide, up slightly from 298 in 2003.

The graph 'Absentee Rate' indicates the absentee rates for 2003 and 2004. With the exception of the USA, all units show an increase in absentee levels. AEGON country units will continue to monitor this development.

AEGON refrains from giving a weighted average number for absenteeism at AEGON company level since definitions of absenteeism are different in the various countries.

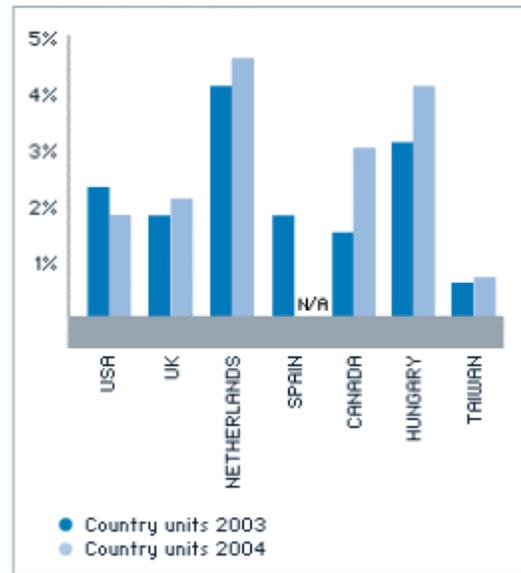

The relatively high number in AEGON The Netherlands is in line with higher absentee rates across industries in the Netherlands. In 2003 the country wide average was 4.8%. The figure for 2004 was not available at time of publication of this report

4.3 Responsible products

AEGON offers Socially Responsible Investment (SRI) funds managed by AEGON asset management divisions. During 2004, the amount of SRI funds in the UK grew by GBP 50 million from GBP 138 million to GBP 188 million. SRI funds as a percentage of total funds under management grew from 0.45% in 2003 to 0.60% in 2004.

In the Netherlands, SRI assets grew from EUR 57 million to 63 million. However, the share of SRI funds decreased slightly from 0.13% to 0.10%.

AEGON ABSENTEE RATE

4.4 Community impact

Cash donations in 2004 amounted to EUR 6.2 million, down slightly from EUR 6.5 million in 2003, a decrease of 5%. This decrease is due to a much lower value of the dollar relative to the euro. When correcting for currency movements, actual cash donations in 2004 were 9% larger than in 2003.

5 ENVIRONMENTAL PERFORMANCE

As a financial services company, direct environmental impact is limited. Nevertheless, as a large organization, AEGON does consume raw materials and energy and its output has an impact on the environment.

The updated environmental figures in this chapter include data from Spain.

5.1 Materials

AEGON's paper use rose by 15% to 3,285 metric tons.

5.2 Energy

In 2004, AEGON used 118.2 GWh of electricity, 12.4% more than in 2003. Gas use rose more sharply to 45%, which was 2.75 million m³. The total output of CO₂ of the entire AEGON Group amounts to 101,875 tons. The increase is partly due to the inclusion of the Meeùs subsidiary in the Netherlands. Per employee, the overall energy use results in 3.8 tons per year, an increase of 12% relative to 2003. Energy saving measures have been more than offset by adverse weather conditions in most country units.

5.3 Water use

The total water use of AEGON has risen slightly, again due to the inclusion of the Meeùs subsidiary in the Netherlands. However per employee total water use decreased with two liters per day to 70 liters per day in 2004.

5.4 Waste

For the 45% of the organization (as measured by employees) that monitors the waste production, the total amount of waste is 1450 tons. Approximately 48% of this is being recycled.

5.5 Transport

In 2004, the 65 million miles flown in the USA were 13% less than in 2003. The CO₂ emissions relating to USA travel went down by 13% as well and amounted to 11,633 tons in 2004.

5.6 Environmental management

The Netherlands operations of AEGON are ISO 14001 certified. Since 2004 AEGON UK has managed its operations according to ISO14001 standards but without certification. It aims to achieve this by the end of 2005. For the AEGON Group this means that 38% of the business, measured by employees, is managed according to ISO14001 standards.
